Beth Rhodes, Senior Project Manager of Communications and Community Outreach, Capital Projects, updated the Council on the proposed social slope changes and construction logistics, including where construction equipment staging will be located and the movement of construction vehicles through campus during the construction period.

Paths accessing campus buildings and parking lots will shift to accommodate the construction. Mitigation of effects will help reduce complaints and an ongoing communication plan will make the community aware of what is happening on and around campus during the construction phase of the LRC.
